

Lab-Sheet-8: Files

➤ All of the programs must be compiled using your computer, and the identical programs must be handwritten on an A4-sized piece of paper along with output and compiling steps.

1. Create a file to store following ten numbers: -2, -8, -99, -100, 101, 20, 21, -9, 1000, 10.
2. Write a program to store value of two integer variables in a file named "Two_Rupees.txt".
3. Write program that writes only those words which starts with 'a' to the file named 'a.txt'. The content of the file 'a.txt' must not be erased with new entry.
4. Write program that stores information of students in a file. In this file new records of students can be added without affecting existing records of students. Students have name, age and address as attributes.
5. Write a program to store records of N employees in a file named employee.dat. These records contain name, identification number, office name and occupation of the employee. Now display name of those employees whose office name is "Nepal Bank" and occupation is "Manage".
6. Write a program to take 10 integers as input and perform following:
 - Display sum of all integer taken.
 - Write odd numbers from those 10 integers to file "odd.txt".
 - Write even numbers from those 10 integers to file "even.txt".
 - Read "even.txt" and "odd.txt" files and display in monitor.
7. A book record consists of its title, author, pages and price. Write a program to perform following operations.
 - Read records of 13 books.
 - Store records of all 13 books in the file "booklist.dat".
 - Read only the information of 9 books from "booklist.dat" skipping 2 books from first and 2 books from last and display in terminal.
8. A student records consists of its rollno, name, address, and grade. Write a program to perform following operations.
 - Read the records of 15 students.
 - Display the records of all students who are in grade 10.
 - Store records of all 15 students in the file "student.txt".
 - Read the content of file "student.txt" and display it.
9. A data file "student.txt" contains name, age, address, cell number of some students. Write a program to list all students whose address is "Pokhara".
10. Write a C program to input name, address and rollno of 30 students and store them in a data file.
11. Write a C program to read the name, address and rollno of the students from the file and display them in proper format.
12. Write a C program to store the text "I love Nepal" in the file and display it by reading from the file.
13. Write a C program to write some text "Welcome to BCA program" in a file test.txt.
14. Write a C program to create a file named "myfile.dat". Store your name in the file. Rename the file to "myfile1.dat".
15. Write a C program to delete/remove a file.
16. WAP to make menu-based program using file to append,read,delete data in file. Use switch for append,read,delete,quit.